MOLTEN WAVES COLLECTION 2025

MOLTEN WAVES

Mexican jewelry brand Avec Joyeria renews its collaboration with Franco-Moroccan designer Sammy Bernoussi with the launch of Molten Wave. Conceived as a natural extension of their first joint project (Full Wave), revealed at Paris Fashion Week AW2024 and later at Mexico Design Week, this new collection deepens a unique formal language, inspired simultaneously by water, molten metal, and traditional Moroccan geometries.

Comprising 28 pieces of jewelry – rings, necklaces, bracelets – and 3 design objects (a mirror, a vase, and an ashtray), Molten Wave positions itself as a hybrid project at the intersection of jewelry and object design. This duality reflects Bernoussi's trajectory, oscillating between product design and interior architecture.

“We sought to capture the movement of water, to translate the fluidity of a wave or the vibration of a ripple into metal,” explains the designer. This formal vocabulary, born from 3D experimentation and research into geometric patterns (Moroccan zellij), led to the development of a modular system: the same molds serve multiple typologies, optimizing the production process.

The aesthetic of Molten Wave extends beyond wearable pieces: it unfolds into space through a specially conceived display for the Paris launch. Here, visual merchandising codes become integral to the project, offering a global experience where jewelry and objects engage in a unified dialogue.
